

Keeping Rulers from Slipping

A few strips of plastic surgical tape called Transpore on the back of your rulers really helps stop your ruler from moving. Transpore or generic plastic surgical tape can be purchased in the tape and bandage section at any pharmacy. This plastic surgical tape tears easily and is see-through so won't obscure any numbers or lines. You can either put a couple of strips vertically or horizontally depending on the size of your ruler. The tape has just enough texture to keep your ruler steady when cutting. This surgical tape comes in different widths and comes in a dispenser similar to scotch tape.

Cheryl Sparks